

Read our 3 learning strategies - place yourself at the center of your learning

As a student, you want to maximize the skills you're building. At Pearson Advance, we strive to meet every learner at every level and give them the tools to succeed. Everyone progresses at their own pace, so we've gathered three general learning strategies to help set you up for success.

- Open the lines of communication. Your learning can thrive when you connect with your online community. From classmate collaboration to online discussions managed by the course team, reaching out to discuss readings, setting up virtual study groups or chatting about an assignment can elevate your learning.
- Create a weekly study schedule. You can benefit from a higher success rate when you allocate enough time to absorb the material.
- Work strategically. Focus on high-priority tasks and set clear goals to work toward.

Stay active in your learning process!
